

APA STYLE SAMPLE REFERENCE

Following is a sample reference page constructed according to the sixth edition of the Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association. Please note that, although this list includes formatting for a listing for a Wikipedia article, wikis are not considered scholarly sources and are not usually acceptable as sources for student work. For an explanation of how to construct individual listings, see the separate document addressing the basics of the APA style of referencing.

Formatting the reference page

Center the word “References” (in plain type, not bolded) horizontally at the top of a new page (use the “Page Break” command under “Insert” in Microsoft Word to ensure that the heading remains at the top of a new page even if you make changes in the body of the paper), just below the running head and page number. Double-space the entire page with no extra line spacing between entries. Format everything below the title using a “hanging indent,” in which the first line of each entry begins at the left margin and subsequent lines are indented by ½ inch. To access the hanging indent feature in Microsoft Word 2007, begin in the “Paragraph” section on the “Home” tab. Open the drop-down menu on the “line spacing” icon and select “Line Spacing Options.” In the dialog box that appears, find the “Indentation” section. Select “Hanging” from the drop-down menu under “Special.” In earlier versions of Word, select “paragraph” from the “Format” drop-down menu to access the same dialog box.

What to include in the list of References

Include in the reference list all the sources you have cited in the paper except personal communications, and include no works that are not cited. A source may be an article, chapter, report, whole book, website article, blog posting, movie, or other work. List works in alphabetical order by first author surname. If two or more works have the same first author, order by second authors, if any, then by publication date, with the most recent first.

If this page differs from the manual

Please note that although the first printing of the sixth edition of the Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association [APA] contained formatting errors in the sample paper, this document follows the corrected second printing of the manual. The APA’s corrected sample papers are available at <http://supp.apa.org/style/PM6E-Corrected-Sample-Papers.pdf>.

NOTE: This website (<http://www.citationmachine.net/apa/cite-a-book>) will give you a comprehensive guide to APA citations and formats.

Please research your topic(s) using either online library research or online articles, books, journals and follow the examples when completing your reference page.

Please log into this website and follow the examples for basic reference list entry for journal/article in APA format.

SEE: APA STYLE SAMPLE REFERENCE document on Document Library.

SEE APA STYLE SAMPLES REFERENCE PAGE BELOW:

References

American Psychiatric Association. (2000). Diagnostic and statistical manual of mental disorders (4th ed., text rev.). Washington, DC: Author.

Bower, H. (2001). The gender identity disorder in the DSM-IV classification: A critical evaluation. Australian and New Zealand Journal of Psychiatry, 35, 1-8.
doi:10.1046/j.1440-1614.2001.00859.x

Carroll, L. & Gilroy, P. J. (2002). Transgender issues in counselor preparation. Counselor Education & Supervision, 41, 233-242. Retrieved from <http://www.counseling.org>

Carroll, L., Gilroy, P. J., & Ryan, J. (2002). Counseling transgendered, transsexual, and gender variant clients. Journal of Counseling and Development, 80(2), 131-129. Retrieved from <http://www.counseling.org>

Author's surname, initials(s). (Year Published). Title of source. Location of publisher: Publisher. Retrieved from URL (website link)

Castillo, R. J. (1996). Culture and mental illness: A client centered approach. Pacific Grove, CA: Brooks/Cole.

Chen-Hayes, S. F. (2001). Counseling and advocacy with transgendered and gender-variant persons in schools and families. Journal of Humanistic Counseling, Education and Development, 40(1), 34-48. Retrieved from <http://www.counseling.org>

Crain, W. (2005). Theories of development: Concepts and applications (5th ed.). Upper Saddle Ridge, NJ: Pearson.

Dixon, A. L., Scheidegger, C., & McWhirter, J. J. (2009). The adolescent mattering experience: Gender variations in perceived mattering, anxiety, and depression. Journal of Counseling and Development, 87, 302-310.